University of Turku, UTU

The University of Turku is an international research university located in Turku, Finland, the happiest country in the world. UTU is an active academic community of 25,000 students and employees from over 100 different countries. As one of the leading research universities in Finland, the University of Turku offers study and research opportunities in seven faculties, one of which is the Turku School of Economics. See 10 Best reasons to choose UTU.

Turku School of Economics

Turku School of Economics is part of the University of Turku and a tight-knit international community of 3,000 undergraduate and postgraduate students, 200 researchers and lecturers, and exchange students. We received the AACSB accreditation in 2019.

UTU Graduate School and the Doctoral Programme of Turku School of Economics

The Doctoral Programme of Turku School of Economics aims to train experts for the needs of business, society, and the academic community. It offers scientific researcher training to solve relevant, current, and anticipated problems related to business, economy, and society. The Doctoral Programme of TSE is a part of the University of Turku Graduate School \(UTUGS\). The University of Turku Graduate School (UTUGS) consists of sixteen doctoral programmes which cover all disciplines and the approximately 2,000 doctoral candidates of the University.

Department of Accounting and Finance

TSE's Department of Accounting and Finance specializes in three subjects: Accounting and Finance, Business Law, and Quantitative Methods in Management. The head of the Department is Professor Luis Alvarez Esteban.

Accounting and Finance is by far the biggest major at TSE in terms of B.Sc. and M.Sc. students. Due to its popularity, we have limited the intake to 70–80 new B.Sc. students during the past years.

Turku School of Economics is also one of the six members of the Graduate School of Finance (GSF) – a joint Finnish nationwide doctoral program in finance. The main objective of GSF is to promote high-quality doctoral education in finance in Finland by organizing advanced-level doctoral courses.

Turku School of Economics is also one of the thirteen members of the Nordic Finance Network (NFN) which was founded by the GSF. Nordic Finance Network (NFN) is a network for research and doctoral training in finance. The main objective of NFN is to promote Nordic doctoral education in finance. Both GSF and NFN organize seminars and workshops for the students of their member organizations and provide support for travel costs, external visits, and invited supervisors.

Doctoral Studies in Finance

The coursework consists of 40 ECTS credits of studies, which are in finance done mostly during the first year and a half. More information about the coursework can be found here. The backbone of the studies is the 30 credits of doctoral studies in finance. In practice, students take (at least) five courses from the curriculum offered by the GSF. The GSF courses are taught by the world's best scholars. In addition, the courses offered by the Nordic Finance Network are also available. The remaining courses include general and elective courses, e.g., in econometrics or economics.
